Fifth Avenue Girls Who Practice in

Private Gymnasiums. The young women of the present generation that one meets on Fifth avenue and upper Broadway are as rosy, healthy and as symmetrically developed as English girls, although they still retain their clear cut beauty of features and slender hands and feet. The reason of this perfect physical development is traced to the private gymnasiums in the city, where almost every branch of athletics is taught. And for the past fifteen years these gymnasiums have increased in number. Every private school of any prominence has one, and in many homes of wealthy residents a room on the top floor is fitted up with a spring board, horizontal bars, pulleys, weights and other athletic furniture, and here the daughters of the house spend many hours. "The majority of ladies attend gymnasiums more for the object of attaining perfect physical development than to become experts in any athletic exercise," said a leader of fashion in speaking of the matter. "You know," she continued, "that a society woman needs a good figure to appear to advatnage at entertainments, and she has found that a regular course of gymnastics will do more to make her arms round, her neck graceful and her ing lessons." Many mothers prefer to train their daughters at home, and most of the belles of a season go through a regular drill for years before their debut. One lady living on Madison avenue has her three daughters come to her every morning at 10 o'clock. They wear regular gymasium suits of dark blue flannel, consisting of a blouse and skirt and Turkish trousers of flannel, shoes without heels and short carriage stately than any course of danc-sleeves. Each girl takes a corner of the room, her face turned toward it, her heels placed together and her hands flat on either side of the wall just even with her shoulders. Then, as the mother counts, they bend forward, the shoulders going beyond the hands, which are kept firm, and bracing them backward. The feet are kept in the first position. After the body has been swayed to and fro a hundred times the maidens are permitted to rest. They are as erect as if drilled in the regular army, and this is due to the old fashioned exercise. The next exercise, also one employed by our grandmothers, is carrying a pail of water on the head and one in either hand across the room without spilling a drop. This gives a graceful poise to the head and shoulders which is noticeable in the lower orders of Italian women who are obliged to carry in this way. These three girls can all accomplish the difficult feat, but it has taken them years to learn. -New York Journal.

Letter From S. S. Prentiss' Widow. Mrs. Mary J. Prentiss, widow of Sargeant S. Prentiss, publishes in The New Orleans Picayune an open letter to Rev. W. H. Milburn, taking him severely to task for certain criticisms of Prentiss in his lecture. Mrs. Prentiss says: "If, therefore, I now address you, it is because I feel that I have not long to live, and I wish before I die to bear witness to the character of my husband which I do not hesitate to pronounce the noblest and purest I have ever known. Permit me to state to you that he was utterly devoid of selfish ambition, living only to serve his country and his fellow men, and desiring to be remembered only by those he loved; that his fortune was lost by the decision of the supreme court of the United States involving his title to the Vicksburg commons; that he died of a NEW GOODS! disease inherited from his father, and that his death was hastened by the fatigue and exposure of the presidential canvass of 1848, and by overwork in his efforts to extricate himself from financial difficulties."-Exchange.

The Sage and the Fool. A Fool who was on his Way to ask Advice of a Sage Encountered him returning Home with a Girl of 18 hanging to his arm and a look of Inexpressible Softness Clear around to his back Collar but-

"Disturb Me not," said the Sage as he waved the Fool aside. "I have just Married this Maiden and must be left to my Honeymoon." of a Sage."

Fool of the two," Moral.-We don't remember whose Hair Dye he called for, nor what baseball club he joined.-Detroit Free Press.

Origin of "the Dead Wood." "I've got the dead wood on you," is an expression signifying that the evidenes of unfair dealing are producible for the justification of the defendant. It originated in this way: A man's wife died and a first class coffin was ordered. The coffin, supposed to be of rosewood, was lowered clumsily into the grave, and one corner of it was knocked off. The gentleman took the piece of wood home, and found it was pine. The bill was presented and a rosewood coffin was one of the items. The undertaker was forced to sue for the amount, and when brought to court the defendant produced his chip in evidence. So goes the story - Detroit Free Press.
